

"Freedom of movement" is Not required for access to the (EU) Single Market

See table, the facts are clear, "freedom of movement" is not currently required to access the (EU) Single Market. But Donald Tusk, on behalf of the European Council, says something different.

Are the European Council and the European Commission now going to embargo all imports into the EU from these countries (which do not have "free movement of people" with the EU)?
